GLOBALTEC HIRES NEW CHIEF TECHNOLOGY OFFICER

(DALLAS—June 27, 2006) GlobalTec announced today that William H. “Bill” Floyd has recently joined the Addison-based investment software company as its new Chief Technology Officer.

In this capacity, Mr. Floyd is responsible for product strategy, management, development, quality assurance and production deployment for Dallas-based GlobalTec, a nationally recognized trading software provider of analytical and trending tools for personal investors and traders. He also is responsible for all the internal IT and external Web and production operations.

“GlobalTec is a great company that has reached impressive milestones over the past three years,” Floyd said. “I’m thrilled to be part of a team that believes strongly in quality products and is so dedicated to the success of individual investors.”

Floyd joined GlobalTec from Realm Business Solutions in Dallas, where he served as the vice president of products and operations (CTO) and led product management, development and quality engineering groups, as well as responsibility for the internal and external operational IT systems. He has also served as vice president of product development at S1 Corporation in Austin, TX, and as CTO, director, architect, consultant, and senior developer for large commercial software companies and Fortune 1000 corporations.

Floyd earned a Bachelor of Science in Mechanical Design Engineering from Brigham Young University, where he graduated Cum Laude. He is the co-author of a published book on developing large-scale software applications with commercial relational database systems.
